Eagle Nest Christian Academy Spreads Wings with AOP

A small Christian academy in Florida is making a big difference in the lives of special needs students with the help of curriculum from Alpha Omega Publications. Serving 31 students on site and 25 online, Eagle Nest Christian Academy uses AOP's online curriculum, Ignitia, for students in grades 3-12 for both on-campus and virtual learning environments, as well as AOP's award-winning Horizons print curriculum for students in grades K-2. Both ENCA and Eagle Nest Online Academy are fully accredited through the American Council of Private Schools Accreditation.

How Ignitia Helped ENCA

- Customizable for All Types of Learners. Sixty percent of ENCA enrollees have learning disabilities, ranging from dyslexia to attention deficit hyperactivity disorder to autism. According to administrator Dr. Doug Boucher, AOP's online curriculum has been instrumental in his students' academic success.
- Enables Academic Success. ENCA consistently surpasses state and national scores on standardized and college preparatory tests with students averaging a "B" in AOP courses.
- Easy to Recommend. Dr. Boucher regularly recommends AOP's online curriculum to local churches looking to start schools because of its biblical foundation and flexibility.
- Accessible Anytime, Anywhere. ENCA is an arm of Eagle Nest International Ministries, which hopes to incorporate AOP's curriculum into its missionary work in the Philippines. Since 1991, the ministry has founded over 200 churches, several Christian schools, and a college on the islands of the country. They also are planning to open a children's home.
- Gives Graduates Confidence. Of the 56 students who have earned diplomas from ENCA, 49 have pursued college degrees, enrolled in vocational school, or joined the military.

I've seen such great things. Kids come in here with no self-esteem, and because we can customize their curriculum, we can get successes. We start seeing self-esteem go up, and then negative behavior goes down.

— Dr. Doug Boucher, Administrator
